

LAWTON'S TROOPS TAKE SANTA CRUZ

REBEL STRONGHOLD ON SHORE OF LAGUNA DE BAY.

Filipinos Made a Strong Resistance, But Were Routed With Great Loss—American Fire Showed Remarkable Precision—The Insurgent Loss Heavy.

Manila, April 10.—[Special].—Gen. Lawton's expedition has captured Santa Cruz, the rebel stronghold on the south-east shore of Laguna de Bay.

The Filipinos made a strong resistance, but were routed with a great loss. Their killed numbered sixty eight, and forty were wounded. American casualties were six wounded.

The American fire in this engagement showed remarkable precision and the deadly effects of war.

Otis Verifies the Report

Washington, April 10.—[Special].—The following was received from Otis this morning: "Lawton's command captured Santa Cruz, the chief city of Laguna de Bay, this morning. Casualties, six wounded. The insurgent troops were driven back, leaving sixty eight dead on the field and a large number of wounded. A considerable number was captured. Lawton will pursue westward."

The Americans captured many prisoners, a number of cannons and a large stock of rifles and ammunition. The troops landed near the city and began an advance at daylight. Fighting began on the outskirts of the city.

The Filipino outposts were driven inland and the main body of rebels was charged. A hot fight followed. The Americans needed but little urging and gradually drove the enemy back.

A bank movement at a critical time completely demoralized the Filipinos, and their slow retreat was turned into a rout. The flying natives were pursued through the streets of Santa Cruz and for some distance into the interior. Then a halt was called and guards were posted throughout the city and the men rested. Another advance may be made later in the day.

Santa Cruz is a town of considerable importance. It is the capital of the province of Laguna, with a population of about fifteen thousand. It was the rebel stronghold, and had not previously been attacked.

Peace is looked for as an opening wedge to the great stretch of country beyond, as good roads are leading in all directions from Santa Cruz.

Kansas Man Wounded.

Manila, April 10.—[Special].—Two men of the Twentieth Kansas were wounded in the night skirmish in front Malolos. The gunboat Bennington was dispatched to the relief of the Spanish garrison reported to be holding out at Baler, on the eastern coast of Luzon. The insurgents in that vicinity have been besieged with Spaniards since last May.

Washington, April 10.—The war department authorities look for important news from Manila, announcing in all probability the capture of the city of Santa Cruz, a leading town in a country as yet untouched by the American forces and now in the hands of the Filipino forces.

No report of the movement of Gen. Lawton's men has been made to the war department, but the move is looked upon as one of the natural steps in Gen. Otis' carefully laid plans against the insurgents.

Santa Cruz is a place of considerable importance in several respects. It is the capital of the province of Laguna and has a population, according to the best available information here, of considerably more than 13,000 persons.

It is regarded as likely that Gen. Lawton has already gained possession of this little stronghold, for it is but a short journey over Laguna bay, a fresh water sea which comes almost up to Manila itself, which is forty-eight miles away from Santa Cruz.

STARTS AFTER REBELS.

Gen. Lawton on the Warpath—Old Frontier Tactics to Be Followed.

Manila, April 10.—The expedition of 1,500 men, under Gen. Henry W. Lawton, which started Saturday night with the intention of crossing Laguna de Bay, capturing the town of Santa Cruz on the eastern shore of the lake and then sweeping the country to the south, consists of 200 picked sharpshooters, chosen from the various regiments; Hawthorne's mountain battery, Gale's squadron, three troops of the Fourth cavalry, unmounted, with Bronko's and Tappan's battalions of the Fourteenth infantry, Linck's battalion of the First Idaho infantry and Fraino's battalion of the First North Dakota infantry, under Gen. King.

The flotilla of twenty canoes, towed by tugs and conveyed by the gunboats Laguna de Bay, Oeste and Rapidan, and preceded by the launch containing Gen. Lawton and Gen. King, started from San Pedro Macati, on the River Pasig, moving toward the lake just as evening was setting in. It was a truly picturesque scene. The men were all in high spirits and carried rations for ten days, with the lightest marching equipment.

Gen. Lawton's plan was to reach Santa Cruz Sunday morning at daylight, to capture or destroy any rebel gunboats or shipping, to take the town and then scour the country to the south of the lake, a district not yet explored by the Americans. The tactics will be those of the old-time frontier fighting, and it is probable that the command will be divided into squads of twelve under non-commissioned officers.

DEWEY NOT A CANDIDATE.

Admiral Declares That He Has No Presidential Aspirations.

New York, April 10.—Admiral Dewey has given to the Manila correspondent of a New York weekly an interview regarding the suggestion that the admiral be made a candidate for the presidency next year. The admiral said as to his politics:

"I am a sailor. A sailor has no politics. The administration is his party, and, republican or democrat, it makes no difference. Then, again, I come from Vermont, and you know what that means. To be anything but a republican in Vermont is to be a man without a party. My flag lieutenant comes from Georgia. He tells me that to be anything but a democrat in the south is to be a nobody. If I lived in the south I would probably be a democrat. I am not a politician, have never held political office, and am totally ignorant of party intricacies and affiliations."

Admiral Dewey said that neither by vocation, disposition, education nor training was he capacitated to fill the presidency. He said that he was too well along in life to consider such a possibility. His health would not admit it. All his life's work was in different lines of effort, and that, while the kindness and enthusiasm of his friends were grateful to him, and the generous tributes of the American people were dear to him, he could not and would not be a candidate for the presidency of the United States under any conditions.

MR. WHEELER'S BILL TO PASS ASSEMBLY

CUTTING DOWN CHANCES OF PERSONAL INJURY SUITS.

Legislators Trying to Figure Out Date of Final Adjournment—April 21 as Early as Anyone Thinks Possible—Anti-Pass Bill Still Hung Up.

Madison, Wis., April 10.—The legislators are trying to figure out whether they will be able to finish the work of the session in two weeks more. This would bring final adjournment April 21, which is as early as anyone thinks possible, and there are some who think business cannot be completed until some time the following weeks. After the legislature is through with the bills it has to wait three days for the governor or to act on them, the continuance of the session being necessary for final action on any bills which the governor might veto. The resolution fixing the date for final adjournment has been laid over several times, and is now appointed to be taken up this afternoon in the senate.

The anti-pass constitutional amendment has passed both houses but the bill is still hung up in the railroad committee of the assembly. Chairman Thomas, of that committee, is one of the most worried men in the legislature. Some of the members are importuning him to hold on to the bill until the last days of the session so that their passes may not be put in immediate danger, while others want the bill reported, and disposed of at once, and as there is no good reason for any further delay they have the best of the argument. Between the two the life of the members of the railroad committee is being made a burden.

Mr. Wheeler's bill, cutting down the chance of personal injury suits against cities, is practically through the assembly. If it is enacted into a law it will save much litigation against them. It provides that only the injured party can sue for damages, and husbands will not be able to get damages from the city as a compensation for the loss of the society and services of their better halves who may fall and be injured on defective sidewalks. The bill also provides that the city shall not be liable for damages to any person who falls on a city sidewalk. Actual lack of repair must be shown.

Mr. Keene's bill giving common councils of cities the right to regulate street railway forces went to third reading in the assembly with surprising celerity but a little examination of the bill shows why the street railway people do not feel greatly alarmed over it. It contains a provision allowing the company to charge a five cent fare until it earns 6 per cent. upon its capital stock. The supreme court has ruled that a company could not be compelled to reduce its fare until it has earned a fair interest upon its money, and 6 per cent. interest is certainly a fair rate. Then there is nothing to prevent the company when it gets to the limit of dividends increasing its capital stock to any amount which may be necessary.

The newly elected mayors in cities of the third and fourth class who thought they saw a chance to reorganize their police forces, owing to the fact that several important parts of the police and fire commission law were omitted in the revision of the statute, are doomed to disappointment. Senator Whitehead's bill curing the defects in the law by supplying these omissions was rushed through both houses last week under suspension of the rules. It amends the law to some extent, one added provision being that in case the commission removes an officer from the force it must give the cause. Some further amendments to the law are probable but it was thought best not to endanger the bill by delay until the time when the new mayors go into office by tacking the amendments on to it. They will follow in another bill.

Some man with a gift for figures has been at work upon the expense of the oratory indulged in by the assemblymen. He figures out that it costs $6 a minute to run the legislature, allowing five hours a day for work. Estimating the time devoted to useless words in the assembly at half an hour each day he makes the total expense of this kind, $18,000 for the session. If his first figures are right, the total is too small, as much more than half an hour is wasted in the assembly every day. Even Assemblyman Daggett is developing into an orator, and is said to be at work on a speech against the fence bill which was under discussion when the assembly adjourned Saturday, and he may yet be heard in defense of the bill which made him famous—the anti-tight lacing measure.

HOBART IS SLOWLY GAINING.

Washington, April 10.—Vice President Hobart is slightly better, but is not yet out of bed. He is slowly gaining strength through his constant rest and succeeds in getting comfortable sleep. His progress, however, it is admitted, is not as rapid as had been hoped for, and he continues very seriously ill.

TROUBLE AMONG MINERS AT PANA, ILL.

PITCHED BATTLE BROKE OUT THIS MORNING.

Between Sheriff's Deputies and Imported Negro Miners and Firing Still Continues—Seven Known to be Dead and Many Wounded—Trouble Occurred on Principal Street.

Pana, Ill., April 10.—[Special].—A pitched battle broke out this morning between the sheriff's deputies and the imported negro miners and the firing still continues. Seven are known to be dead and many are wounded.

The dead are: Xavier Lecoq, miner; Frank Coburn, agent for the Milwaukee Brewery company; three unknown negroes and one negro woman. The wounded are: Wm. Kuhn, shot through both legs; Albert Vickers, shot in the arm, and five others, including two white women. Three of the wounded died.

The trouble occurred on the principal business street of the city. The attempted arrest of Henry Stephens, a negro miner, precipitated the riot.

A CALL FOR TROOPS.

Springfield, Ill., April 10.—[Special].—Governor Tanner received a telegram from the mayor of Pana this morning asking for troops to quell the rioting there. The telegram stated that the whites and negroes were fighting and many shots were fired. The governor stated that troops could not be sent until absolutely needed.

Stephens had been parading the streets, armed with a revolver, defying his arrest. He met Sheriff Downey and several deputies and without a word of warning fired upon Downey, but missed him. The officers immediately opened fire on Stephens, who ran down the street shooting every person he met. One bullet struck Lecoq, killing him instantly. The officers overtook Stephens in a store and shot him six times. The wounds will prove fatal.

Following the shooting of Lecoq, firing began in every part of the city. But the principal portion of it was done from towers at the Pana and Pennwell mines, and it was these shots that killed the other victims named. Sheriff Downey has sworn in and armed every available man who is now being held in readiness for another attack.

Quay, on charges of conspiracy in the alleged misuse of funds of the People's bank of this city, was called today before Judge Biddle in the court of quarter sessions. In view of the many delays and postponements in the proceedings, heretofore there is a general feeling in the public mind that there will still be another delay, but District Attorney Rothermel and counsel for the defense state that they are ready to proceed with the trial and know of no reason to further postpone matters. Mr. Quay and his son have been in the city the greater portion of the week consulting with their counsel relative to the case.

St. Petersburg, April 10.—Reports from the province of Kasan show a serious state of things in that district. The bad harvest of last year and the neglect of the government have led to a famine. Poor Food Inspection.

A physician writing in the Medical Record remarks that the public now so much interested in canned beef for the army seem to forget the extent to which food adulteration affects civilians. The use of boric and salicylic acids to prevent decomposition is harmful to digestion and ought to be prohibited. In any case, canned beef is a small item compared with the general subject of adulteration. The inspection of food supplies of all kinds is far more effective in England than in America.

DISAVOWAL IS EXPECTED.

National Sentiment of Germany Has Been Deeply Wounded—Chauvinist Press Is Exceedingly Indignant.

Berlin, April 10.—Apart from the purely diplomatic and political questions concerning Samoa, which are viewed by the government as being in a fair way to settlement, the national sentiment of Germany has been deeply wounded by Admiral Kautz' treatment of the commander of the German warship Falkt, whose vessel is so small that it was not able to offer any opposition to the American admiral's orders.

It is generally held that Germany is entitled to demand satisfaction for Admiral Kautz' action, which must in any case be a matter of international negotiation. Moreover, Admiral Kautz' proclamation, as reported here, stated that the three consuls and the three naval commanders had unanimously resolved no longer to recognize Matsa's provisional government. It is contended that Herr Rose, the German consul, was compelled to deny this statement, which was not true, whether Admiral Kautz made it intentionally or inadvertently.

The public expects the United States and Great Britain to disavow the conduct of their officials, and interpret the German government's declaration as an intention to demand such a disavowal. The chauvinist press goes so far as to prophesy that war is imminent as the result of Admiral Kautz' "direct insult to the empire and the honor of the German flag."

Interview with White Is False.

London, April 10.—The Berlin correspondent of the Times says he learns from the best authority that Ambassador White did not make the observations attributed to him in an alleged interview published by the Muenchener Allgemeine Zeitung. Mr. White expressed no opinion on the policy of Great Britain or on the attitude of the English press. He certainly is the last man to entertain the sentiments falsely ascribed to him by the Anglophobe Munich journal.

SUNDAY WORSHIP AT THE CHURCHES

BEAUTIFUL WEATHER TAKEN ADVANTAGE OF BY MANY.

Large Attendance at All the Sacred
Edifices—"The Parable of the Prodigal Son" the Theme at Court Street
M. E. Church—Introductory Sermon
at All Souls.

Rev. A. G. Wilson, of All Souls' church, preached and introductory sermon yesterday morning. Following is a part of the sermon:

It is also due the pulpit upon the part of the pew that the very exacting demands of this work should be considered. It is beginning to be conceded that the intellectual and social demands made upon the modern minister in a city church are greater than that of any other profession. The literary task of preparing a new sermon each week for the same congregation upon themes that have been the subject of age, long thought and discussion is not easy and at times becomes a very heavy drudgery not often appreciated by people who have never tried it. The mental anxiety attending the delivery of these sermons from week to week adds its weight and is the secret of nervous prostration and the demand for summer vacations and ocean voyages.

The visiting minister or traveling lecturer who charms you with brilliant effort would sink to the common level of your own minister if subjected to the same test of term. The menses do not always sing. God is not always sensibly near. The spirit like the sea has an ebb and flow, and the pulpit cannot be uniform in excellence. Neither are the people always in a receptive attitude of mind and heart. It is possible to have a good congregation and a poor audience. Numbers are not the important thing but intellectual hospitality and heart responsiveness.

It is a mistaken idea that a liberal pulpit is unrestricted in the scope of its utterances and in the right to advocate any and all reforms of this uneasy and speculative age. The church should neither be a political caucus nor a labor union. It must serve the interests of the people as a whole. It would be a maladministration to espouse the cause of one man as against another while both have equal rights here. The prerogative of this pulpit among the contending classes is to enforce the golden rule and to teach men the principles of christian charity.

And then, too, I feel that the scope of this pulpit should be limited on the side of purely scientific problems. The church is not primarily a school of science or philosophy but of morals and practical living. It must find a definite sphere and stay in it.

The church must cease to antagonize scientific research and adjust its ideas to established science, but the pulpit is no place to teach science as such for it is not often competent, and for the same reason I hope nobody will expect this pulpit to deal or to any extent in those philosophies of oriental origin, which, though charming to many minds, are yet theoretical and quite foreign to a majority of the people. We believe in advanced thought, but it is possible to advance so rapidly and so far as to find ourselves very much alone. To lead the people we must at least keep within sight of them.

The Baptist Church.
Rev. A. J. Kempton, of Mount Carroll, Ill., preached upon the subject, "The Love that Christ Requires." The text was in Matt. 22:35-41 and Mark 12:30-31.

Napoleon declared that he and others had founded his empire by force, but Christ founded his upon love.

What is love?
There are two words in the New Testament translated love. There is the natural or emotional love which if in a pure heart will be pure and good, but it may be degraded. The word translated love and used by Christ was of a higher character. It is not a selfish love but that which sees good in others and considers their welfare. No man was ever so low down but that God can see something in him worth loving.

Christ would have us love God. It is easy for a little child to love God. It is one thing to believe that there is a God and another thing to love him. There are many who try to make themselves believe that they love God and yet they are oppressing the poor, cheating their customers and helping to push 100,000 of his fellowmen into a drunkard's grave.

There is a great deal of unmitigated nonsense today about loving our neighbors while we let giant evils go on and not do a thing to stop them in their afflictions of others.

"Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." This is the teaching of the Saviour. We can do this in many practical ways and it is the love that Christ would have us enjoy. We should ever love our enemies. It may be very difficult to do. We are to be unlike the worldly man. We are to have a love in our hearts for our enemies which he does not have. It is Christian to love your enemy.

Can we justify war? It may be that we can if we can love the enemy at the same time that we are killing them. It may be justified if there is a just and loving purpose back of it all.

Let us love our enemies and thus honor the teaching of our Saviour who taught us to love God supremely and our neighbor as ourselves.

In the evening, Mr. Kempton preached upon the subject, "The Pearl of Great Price." His text was in Matt. 13:45.

A great change has come to the west end shore of the Sea of Galilee. Now it is nearly a barren waste, then it was a fertile, fully populated field. Here is where Jesus sat in a boat and taught the people. This parable of the goodly pearl is the answer to that old question, "is life worth living?"

There are those who are always looking upon the dark side of life. Let us see that life is worth living.

Notice first, the merchantman is seeking something. All men are seeking something. It is a tendency of human nature. It is a good tendency. This merchantman was not drifting but he was seeking, and he knew where he was going. It is well for us if we early learn that we must seek if we would find. This merchant was seeking after goodly pearls. Let us be ambitious to have the best. It is good to seek after that which is good, but it is better to seek after that which is best.

The pearl was used to illustrate Christ's teaching, because it is perfect when first found. So is that great gift of God to us. It cost blood and suffering, as does the getting of the pearl.

Notice again that this merchant has sold all, and he now possesses the best of pearls. So may we; but we must give up all of our possessions and get the greatest of blessings, eternal life. Paul counted all of the good things of his life but dross, that he might win Christ. Let us not be satisfied with only the goodly pearls, but let us seek after that which is lasting, everlasting, the one great pearl of great price.

Court Street M. E. Church

Two large congregations listened with close attention yesterday to what Rev. Walter A. Hall, the pastor, had to say on the parable of The Prodigal Son. He spoke in part as follows: Christ spoke of two sons so that he might bring out in this wonderful word picture by contrast, even as a great painter does on his canvases. The younger of the two demanded "the portion of goods" coming in to him as he was presumably the more foolish. The "portion of goods" was given to each, the older as well as the younger. It represents what each of us receives from God. Our bodies, minds, desires and all the opportunities of environment and experience. Whether we demand them or not, these are ours to do with as we please. Mr. Hall enlarged on the scene of his leaving. Like every other young fellow that never had any experience of life, he thought he knew all about it.

Chickens wonder at the concern of a mother hen when a hawk is over head. There is a gosling age of young manhood when he despises mother's fears and laughs at father's counsel. Iniquity always knows it all. Pride was the beginning of his downfall. Mr. Hall spoke of the prodigal son's sense of freedom. The brook is free because it is restrained by the banks. Remove the banks of restraint on human conduct and it broadens out into a marsh. Mr. Hall enlarged on all the principle clauses of this parable, explaining and illustrating them. The singing was very good. The whole day was bright, glad and helpful.

CYCLERS TAKE WARNING
Should Not Follow the Fire Department When Called Out
The bicycle has become such a popular vehicle and the number used in Janesville is increasing so rapidly that there is a grave danger arising from a certain practice that obtains at the time of fire alarms during the day. There is usually more than one wagon of the department going over the route to the fire and the cyclists have a faculty of getting into the street after the first one has passed and following that to the fire. The second wagon follows so closely sometimes that there is a great danger of some of the riders getting under the wheels and being injured.

It is a danger now and will be more so when the warmer weather of the summer increases the number of riders.

STABLES DESTROYED AT FAIRGROUNDS

FLAMES PLAYED HAVOC LAST SATURDAY NIGHT.

Training Stable and Horse Sheds at the Old Fair Grounds Go Up in Smoke
—Several Hogs Burned—So Far Away, Water Pressure Not Sufficient.

Fire has played havoc with buildings at the fair ground.

At 11:43 o'clock last Saturday night an alarm of fire was turned in from box 25, corner of Milton avenue and Glen street. Upon the arrival of the fire department upon the scene, it was found that the training barn just east of the carriage entrance, had been consumed by the flames. The West Side Hose company was called and responded promptly. The fire ignited the horse stalls which extend from near the carriage entrance to the grand stand on the inside of the fair grounds proper.

Another alarm was then turned in from box 23, Caroline and Fourth avenue, and from 232, Prairie avenue and Walker street.

Water was taken from the hydrant at the corner of Prospect and Milwaukee avenues, but the pressure was not strong enough to do much good. After the fire had consumed about three hundred feet of the best horse sheds on the grounds the progress of the flames was stopped. About twenty of the stalls were left standing. The section that was burned included the best buildings—those erected a few years ago.

Some of the stalls contained cattle but these were saved. One stall contained some hogs that perished in the flames.

The barn which was destroyed is the property of Dixon & Dillon, who were engaged in breaking colts. The horse stalls are owned by J. M. Bostwick, the present owner of the fair grounds. The barn is valued at about $1,000 and the stalls at from $300 to $500. The fire is thought to have been the work of some tramps, sleeping in the barn.

The fire was discovered by Peter Webber, who resides on Bennett street, and George Fass, who resides at 171 Prairie avenue. Mr. Webber started to turn in an alarm, but some one turned it in from box 25. Mr. Webber and Mr. Fass opened the doors of the stables and let out eight head of cattle and a lot of calves.

STEWED CELERY.—A bunch of indifferent celery may be utilized for this dish. I have received stalks frosted accidentally through the cook's carelessness, and thrown them in the cold water for two hours and presented as palatable food, whose end would otherwise be the garbage pail. Scrape the stalks carefully, cut into inch lengths and lay in cold water until you are ready to cook them. Simmer in boiling salted water until tender, but not to breaking. Drain, dish and pour over the celery a good white sauce, raising the pieces with a fork to let the sauce reach the lower strata.

RICE WATER.—Always boil rice in plenty of water. When the grains are soft, but not broken, drain in a colander over a bowl and not into the sink. Rice water contains more nourishment than the cooked cereal itself. Set aside for some hours, and you have a jelly which will add value to your soup stock, or it may be boiled with a still finer, sweetened slightly and flavored with rose water or vanilla and, lastly, left in the ice or in a cold place to form in a mold.

Let Us Overhaul Your Bath Room.

A great many bath tubs in this city were put in years ago. Likewise water closets. They are foul, ill-smelling and unwholesome and a menace to health. Bath tubs were boxed in and pipes out of sight, often leaking and accumulating dirt. You should throw these out and put in a bright porcelain tub and a syphon waste closet with exposed nickel water pipes. You will take more comfort for that you can imagine. The price for this kind of this kind of work has got down to reasonable figures now. If you think of doing anything to your bath room. We will be glad to give you an estimate of the cost and other information and help which our experience would suggest.

CATARRH OF THE STOMACH.

A Pleasant, Simple, Safe but Effectual Cure for It.

Catarrh of the stomach has long been considered the next thing to incurable. The usual symptoms are a full or bloated sensation after eating, accompanied sometimes with sour or watery risings, a formation of gases, causing pressure on the heart and lungs and difficult breathing; headaches, flake appetite, nervousness and a general played out, languid feeling.

There is often a foul taste in the mouth, coated tongue and if the interior of the stomach could be seen it would show a slimy, inflamed condition.

The cure of this common and obstinate trouble is found in a treatment which causes the food to be readily, thoroughly digested before it has time to ferment and irritate the delicate, mucous surfaces of the stomach. To secure a prompt and healthy digestion is the one necessary thing to do and when normal digestion is secured the catarrhal condition will have disappeared.

According to Dr. Hurler the safest and best treatment is to use after each meal a tablet, composed of Diastase, Aseptic Pepsin, a little Nux, Golden Seal and fruit acids. These tablets can now be found at all drug stores under the name of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and not being a patent medicine can be used with perfect safety and assurance that healthy appetite and thorough digestion will follow their regular use after meals.

Mr. N. J. Booher of 2310 Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill., writes: "Catarrh is a local condition resulting from a neglected cold in the head, whereby the lining membrane of the nose becomes inflamed and the poisonous discharge therefrom passing backward into the throat reaches the stomach, thus producing catarrh of the stomach. Medical authorities prescribed for me for three years for catarrh of stomach without cure, but today I am the happiest of men after using only one box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I cannot find appropriate words to express my good feeling. I have found fresh, appetite and sound rest from their use."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the safest preparation, as well as the simplest and most convenient remedy for any form of indigestion, catarrh of stomach, biliousness, sour stomach, heartburn and bloating after meals.

Send for little book mailed free, on stomach troubles, by addressing Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich. The tablets can be found at all drug stores.

FILIPINOS ARE WRONG.
The London Speaker, commenting upon the difficulties of the Americans in the Philippines and asserting that the new series of troubles which is said to be inevitable even after the capture of Malolos probably puts an end to the Filipino republic, continues: "It must be noted throughout the present struggle that the Filipinos have put themselves in the wrong. The plea that they were fighting in defense of their rights does not hold good in the case of Manila, which is the center of European interests. It could not be left to the mercy of revolutionaries. America, through no fault of her own, has become responsible for the good government of the Philippine islands and is bound to suppress Aguinaldo as we suppressed Arabi Pasha for the protection of European interests in Egypt. It may be possible hereafter to give the Filipinos local self-government, even independence, but for the present it is absolutely necessary to secure peace at Manila for the maintenance of the commerce of the islands. If, by threatening this the Filipino government made itself impossible, the fault lies with itself and not with the United States, for the present gallant troops in the newer west are the mandatories of civilization and Europe, and are carrying on the war in the interests of peace."

SURPLUS FOR MARCH.
The forthcoming monthly statement of the treasury will show, exceptionally heavy receipts and a material decrease in the expenditures. For the month of March the receipts from customs will amount to about $21,000,000 from internal revenue over $22,600,000 and from miscellaneous sources over $13,400,000, making a total of over $57,000,000. Of this amount $11,798,000 was paid into the treasury in payment of four notes given the government in part settlement of the debt of the Central Pacific railroad. The disbursement during March amounted to $42,998,571, leaving a surplus for the month of $14,031,653, or a surplus of $2,238,653, leaving the Central Pacific payment out of the account.

Machinery for a new 300-barrel flour mill at Shanghai, China, was shipped recently by the Edward P. Allis company of Milwaukee, Wis. This mill will be in all respects as perfect as the best mills built in this country. Power will be furnished by a Reynolds Corlies engine. This will be the first American roller mill to be built in China and also the first mill of foreign make to be owned and run by Chinamen.

The statement that "A Laplander will often skate 150 miles in a day" has created some interest despite the fact that men who "have skates on" are expected to do wonderful things.

In the hotels built in China for the use of foreigners, the highest stories are the most expensive because they are the breeziest. This explains the expression "high priced."

Vessel in Southerly Gales.
Vineyard Haven, Mass., April 10.—The tug Tamagua reports that Saturday morning, when about six miles off Montauk, with barges Kohinoor, Elangowan and Lincoln in tow, from Philadelphia to Boston, she encountered southerly gales, and lost the barges Kohinoor and Elangowan, of which no trace has been found. A thick fog prevailed.

Union Pacific Buys Land.
Omaha, Neb., April 10.—The Union Pacific Railroad company has secured control of twenty-six lots in South Omaha and will use them to increase its terminal facilities. Extensive coal yards will be located thereon. The company will also purchase two blocks in another location, which it will use to accommodate additional sidetracks.

EX-ROCK COUNTY FARMER KILLED

R. B. CHARLES AND WIFE DIE FROM COAL GAS.

Found Dead Yesterday Morning at Their Home in Whitewater—Couple Were Well Known in This County Where Mr. Charles Once Resided—Leaves Large Estate.

R. B. Charles, for many years a farmer of the town of Lima, Rock county, was found dead yesterday morning at his Whitewater home. The dead body of his wife was discovered in the same room. Death resulted from escaping coal gas. Mr. and Mrs. Charles had not been seen since Wednesday, but it was supposed that they were visiting relatives a few miles from Whitewater. Mr. Charles' son Henry, learning that they were not in the country, as supposed, and asked the officers to break open the house. The body of Mr. Charles was found lying on the floor in his night clothes, and the body of his wife was lying in bed. Both had evidently been dead since Wednesday evening. The top was partly open to the coal stove, and it is generally agreed the couple were asphyxiated. There was no reason to suspect any foul play or suicide. Mrs. Charles, who was quite feeble, evidently died without waking. In the case of Mr. Charles it was evident there had been a struggle. Both were quite old, Mr. Charles being eighty-one and his wife nearly as old. They were married last September, she coming from Watertown, N. Y., just before their marriage. Mr. Charles had lived at Lima and Whitewater for many years. They leave a large estate.

DICK COURTNEY.

Dick Courtney bore the reputation of being the laziest man in his set. At almost any hour of the day he might be found at the Manhattan club occupying the easiest chair in the room, his feet in another, a cigar in his mouth, and a far-away look in his eyes. Yet he was extremely popular for his money, good looks and charm of manner gave him the key to society's gate, and no swell function was deemed complete without the presence of Dick Courtney. But no one ever expected him to "do anything," and no one ever undertook the task until he met Dorothy Vernon.

Dorothy was a very energetic young person, but when she began the "education" of Dick Courtney, as she expressed it, she had a larger contract on her hands than she imagined. At the end of a year about all she had accomplished was to gain possession of Dick's heart, at the cost of losing her own, though she would have denied that last statement most emphatically; for she inwardly rebelled against the idea of loving "such a lazy man." Dorothy had "theories," and with all the audacity of a nineteenth century girl she did not hesitate to express her views of any of the subjects of the day. When war was declared her enthusiasm all turned in that direction, and she bemoaned the fact that she was a girl and could not go to the front.

It was one evening in the early spring, at the Van Delands' reception. "Oh, it is terrible to be a woman, and have to just sit by and wait. If I was a man I wouldn't wait long; it is every man's duty to go; don't you think so?"

"Certainly, Miss Vernon," answered Gerald Alstein, with alacrity; "and it is to be hoped the call of duty will find none of our loyal Americans wanting," added he, with a meaning look at Dick Courtney, who had come up just then. Courtney and Alstein were not the best of friends; perhaps because they saw in each other a possible rival for the hand of Dorothy.

Dick's father and mother were English, and he had all an Englishman's proverbial coolness; so he only said in reply to Alstein's little shot.

"What's that? War again? Really, Miss Dorothy, what a little enthusiast you are!"

"And rightly so," said Alstein. "Would there were more women like her, and more men imbued with her spirit. I wish I could stay and help you champion our cause, Miss Vernon, but I see the next dance is beginning and I must go."

As Alstein took his leave, Dick settled comfortably in the seat by Dorothy's side, and drifted in his slow English way.

"Is Alstein going to war, Dorothy?" "Yes, he is going, of course; he isn't going to shirk his duty. He's the most enthusiastic man I've seen for a long while, and he thinks just as I do. We ought not to wait, but go, at once, and avenge the terrible wrongs that have been committed by the Spaniards."

Dick smiled, but did not answer. His seeming indifference nettled her. "Perhaps you do not understand Mr. Alstein's feelings in the matter. You can not feel just as we do, whose fathers and grandfathers have fought and died for this country. You're English, and—"

"What else, Dorothy?" "You're lazy; you know you are."

"What else, Dorothy?" Dick was outwardly as composed as ever, but a slight compression of the lips and a deep drawn breath showed that Dorothy was hurting him. Dorothy knew it, too, but, woman-like, she liked to dare—even the man she loved—"and a coward!" finished Dorothy in a sudden moment of exasperation and anger.

"I wouldn't say that if I were you, Dorothy; it isn't exactly fair, you know. I wouldn't take it from a man, but from a woman—the woman I love, too—I think I'd better go now; I see Mr. Alstein just outside; I'll send him to you."

"Dick!" but it was too late; he had left her.

A few days later Dorothy's most intimate friend, Ethel Burnham, came rushing in with some startling news. "Oh, Dorothy! Did you know Dick Courtney had gone to war—had joined the Rough Riders? Think of the 'swell' Dick, who never did a day's work in his life, doing that?" and Ethel laughed at the imaginary picture she had drawn, then added, dolefully: "Most likely he'll be killed."

Poor Dorothy! After Ethel had gone she threw herself on the couch in an agony of remorse. Those last words

THROUGH THE HOT GRASS, of hers to him seemed burning themselves upon her brain. She had called him a "coward," and now he had gone—perhaps forever.

As for Dick, on that never-to-be-forgotten day at Guasimas, when those brave men put to flight an enemy four times their own in number, his last thought was of Dorothy as he went through the hot high grass with mouth tightly shut and eyes to the front. He got a slight wound early in the encounter but that only served to awaken him to the terrible reality of the situation. He dimly wondered what she would say if she saw him now, blood-stained and dust-covered as he was. Then he forgot even Dorothy, for the bullets fell thick and fast, and the dead and dying were all about him. Just before the end of the battle a pointed bit of steel came silently and swiftly on its deadly mission, and the next moment Dick Courtney was lying stunned and bleeding in the long grass.

"His wound is mortal," was the surgeon's verdict, but he did not die for all that. He was too young and strong, and after weeks of pain and suffering he was back in New York again, still weak and ill, but with every certainty of recovery before him. The first evening that he spent in the city found him on the way to Dorothy's house. As he waited for her to come to him he caught sight of himself in the mirror and smiled at the thin, haggard vision that presented itself. He wondered if he had retrieved his character in her eyes, and then there was the rustle of a woman's dress on the stairs, and Dorothy, repentant, loving, was in his arms, with a cry of "Forgive me, Dick!"

Later on Dick ventured to ask: "By the way, Dorothy, did Alstein get killed or wounded or anything? I haven't heard."

"He—he didn't go after all; he was called to Europe on important business," she added. "I've found out one thing. Dick, the bravest men aren't always the ones who talk the most, and a man can be a hero even if his great-grandfather didn't fight in the revolution."—Boston Post.

LIEUT. RICHARDSON WRITES FROM MANILA

SON OF HON. AND MRS. HAMIL-TON RICHARDSON.

First Lieutenant in the Twentieth U. S. Infantry and a Graduate of West Point—Interesting Letter Descriptive of the Scene of Hostilities by L. T. Richardson.

The following letter was received by Mrs. Hamilton Richardson, of this city, from her son, L. T. Richardson, a first lieutenant in the Twentieth United States Infantry and a graduate of West Point, which will be read with interest by the many friends of the officer, in this city.

La Loma Church, near Manila.—My Dear Mother:—We arrived here Thursday night, the 23d, and lay in the bay that night. Parts of the city were still burning, and we soon heard reports of the recent fighting. It did not surprise us much, as we had more than half expected to find things in their present condition. The regiment was landed the next day in the native lights as ships cannot come up to the docks. We camped or rather slept in the open, that night near the lunetta. The next day was a very pleasant one as a volunteer paymaster, Major Gimbrell, was very kind to me having me at his house for lunch or "tiffin" and dinner. After lunch he made me take a nap on his "sleeping machine" and then drove me to about all the points of interest. Most of the houses here have their first stories of stone and their second of wood. Gimbrell's like all of the better ones is built for the climate, and is very roomy and cool, with a lawn, court yard, servants' quarters, stables, etc., and with a large stone porch in the rear, that overlooked the bay. Servants are so cheap that everyone lives like a lord with an army of vassals. Sunday, my battalion was ordered out here, and the next day two companies of it, G and L, were sent over to the left, about a mile, to Calococan, while the other two companies, F and C, the latter mine, still remain here. We occupy a kind of a salient in the line and are quartered in a cemetery. It consists of a square enclosure surrounded by a high stone wall having a single opening in front. Inside the wall and nearly all around it are three tiers of niches for burial. At the back part is a square storm pit where the bones of those who have not paid their rent are thrown, the rent being $5 per year per niche. The church or mortuary chapel in the center is quite an imposing structure. On account of the thickness of the walls, some four or five feet, it is very cool and suitable for the purposes for which we use it, as a hospital and headquarters. It is a strange sight to see this place fortified, with guns at one corner and with the walls loop-holed for musketry. Soldiers are sleeping everywhere, on graves, on an archbishop's couch and on the steps of the high altar itself. I sometimes wonder we don't tear down the great figure of the crucifixion, as we are short of firewood. The cemeteries in Manila and in every community through the islands are constructed in this same way and make very good fortifications, against infantry, though they would be untenable under artillery fire.

This place was taken from the Spaniards by the insurgents and from the latter by our troops. General Otis has filled a very difficult position in a very able manner and is as highly thought of here as Dewey, if not more so. For many months the policy of the government has been unsettled and in the meantime he has been compelled to temporize until the natives were fully convinced that they had but to rise up in anger when we would be driven out. Their lines were so close to the city that something was bound to happen and when it did happen, the natives were driven far back and checkmated at every point. With the exception of the fact that some Chinese districts suffered, all the native attempts to burn the city have proved fruitless or rather boomerangs, as they have resulted in burning large districts of the native huts. Things are comparatively quiet in the city now, though every American goes armed and with his hand on his revolver. They even take them to bed for the servants are natives and a large part are not to be trusted. Since we have been on the lines, it has been very quiet except that they occasionally fire on our outposts while our artillery takes a shot at them now and then.

The Chinese are numerous class, and the Japs are our friends. The natives are a small race and are cleanly and industrious but very cruel in war. Many are brave to fanaticism but without organization. They murder in the dark, often kill prisoners, mutilate bodies, fire on the red cross and cover their houses with white flags before they open fire from them. After firing a district they get outside and shoot at the people attempting to put it out. They are very imitative and their craftsmen can copy perfectly any article given them. In the same way their soldiers have already learned to form skirmish lines and outposts and to fire wretched attempts at volleys, yelling at the same time, "mucho mismo Americanos." "Just like the Americans." Their shooting is very poor, as they don't even place the gun to the shoulder; but they do a great deal of shooting as they keep men in ranks without arms to take the places of those killed who are carrying them. The result is, our troops don't capture as many arms as men and would rather capture a gun than a man. Some amusing things occur. They are very musical and we can hear their bugles playing very well indeed, but they don't seem to have any preference in the way of tunes and play our airs as often as anything else. "America," "Aguinaldo's March" and "Stand Up For Jesus" are played in quick succession and meet with equal approval. They seem to be almost entirely devoid of sentiment. As martial law is in force, burial permits are issued by the military authorities. Many bodies are brought here for burial. They hold no services whatever and as we do not allow them to put bodies in the niches we have to place a sentinel over each burial party to compel them to dig the grave to a decent depth. I have seen a mother smoking a cigarette and jesting with her family over the open grave of her daughter.

We know nothing, but the plan for the present seems to be to hold what we have just now, without inviting attack until then to send a column up through the country to take their capital and other places. The climate is claimed to be healthful, and the troops who have been here for some time have had very little sickness. I have been well since I left Leavenworth. Small-pox is more dreaded here than anything else, but I am suffering from a successful vaccination, so I don't think I have much to fear. Most of the American ladies in the city have gone on board the boats for safety. The Morgan City came in two days since, and General Otis will not allow the ladies on her, among whom are Mrs. Irons and Mrs. Estes, to land for the present. I hope to hear from you by the mail that is due in a day or two. With much love to you all, and in hopes that you are all well. Your loving son,

Tom.

JACK HESS DYING WITH CONSUMPTION

NOW CONFINED IN PORTAGE BASTILE.

Chief Hogan Secured His Information From Wandering Hobo—Hess and Sonders Made Their Escape From Rock County Jail July 31, 1897—Will Not Be Prosecuted.

Jack Hess, who with William Sonders, made his escape from the Rock county jail on the night of July 31, 1897, has been located.

He is now occupying a cell in the Portage, Wis., jail, where he is held as a witness in a murder case.

Sonders' whereabouts are still a mystery and the chances are he is many miles away.

The whereabouts of Hess was conveyed to Chief Hogan by a wandering hobo who stopped over in Janesville for a night's lodging.

Several weeks ago, a gang of tough characters wandered into Portage and after making the rounds of several of the saloons, got into a fight among themselves with the result that one of the gang was stabbed and died soon afterwards. The police then caused the arrest of the entire gang and they were placed in jail.

According to the hobo, who gave the police here their information, Hess was a member of the gang.

Since being confined in the Portage jail, his health has failed him and it is now said that he is dying with consumption.

From a robust man of 150 pounds, he is now a physical wreck.

Hess is about forty years of age and is a man well known in Janesville and vicinity.

In 1897, Hess and William Sonders were arrested, charged with breaking into freight cars at Beloit. They were brought to Janesville and lodged in jail to await trial.

On the night of July 31, 1897, Hess and Sonders made their escape from the Rock county jail by moving bricks from the chimney. They then easily gained the roof by this route, and then let themselves to the ground by means of a rope constructed of bed clothing. Hess, in all probability, will not be brought back to Janesville to answer for his crime, for his days are already numbered.

INTERESTING MEETING AT THE Y. M. C. A.

Well Known Philadelphia Divine, Who Was Converted When a Boy Selling Papers—Will Do Missionary Work In Japan Next Year—Speak Twice Here Sunday.

Rev. D. L. Schultz, of Philadelphia, who is known throughout the country as the "Newsboy Preacher," will hold services in Janesville next Sunday.

He will preside at the men's prayer meeting at the Y. M. C. A. building in the morning and will speak at the men's meeting in the afternoon, at the same place.

This will be Mr. Schultz' first visit to the Bower City and he should be greeted at both meetings by large congregations.

Committees are at work making arrangements and on his arrival he will be given a cordial reception. Rev. Schultz is an interesting speaker and has delivered addresses in the principal cities of this country. When a small boy, he was a resident of Philadelphia and made his living by selling papers on the streets. While in this business he became converted. This is how he received the title of the newsboy preacher. At the age of ten years, he could not read nor write; but after being placed in good hands this obstacle was soon mastered. He then started in the missionary work among the classes that he had mingled with and has ever since had the good work in hand. Rev. Schultz and his wife intend to take up independent missionary work in Japan next year. They are members of the Baptist church, and have been accomplishing good in all the cities visited.

PORTO RICAN AFFAIRS.

Under General Henry the Island is Rapidly Settling Itself.

Major George W. Fishback, Chief Paymaster of the Department of Porto Rico: "The management of the island and its affairs commands the admiration of both natives and Americans, Major General Guy V. Henry, who is Military Governor, has proved himself to be most acceptable to both natives and Americans. He is a forceful man and full of the kindest sympathies for the native people. He has surrounded himself with a cabinet made up of the most intelligent men of the island, and through them as representatives of the different branches of the government he rules the island firmly but justly. He summoned the leaders of the Roman Catholic church and conveyed to them the fact that he proposed to have perfect freedom of religious worship in Porto Rico; that he would not tolerate any interference with the affairs of the Roman Catholic church, nor would he allow that church to interfere with free religious worship on the part of the Protestant denominations. He furthermore served notice upon the archbishop that he would expel from the island any priest or body of priests who openly or in underhand ways made any effort to influence the native people in questions of religious worship. I asked the minister of justice the other day in what esteem General Henry was held among the best people in government circles; and he replied that he was very well liked, but was open to the criticism of making his cabinet officers do more work than they were accustomed to. The idea of working eight hours a day, with only a short interruption for a midday breakfast, was something that Porto Rican business men are not accustomed to.

"The whole island is under the most perfect control, under General Henry's military supervision. Disturbers of the peace have felt the weight of his iron hand and now appreciate the fact that an offender will be dealt with quickly and severely if he commits an offense against either public health or morals. The postoffice service is being extended to all parts of the island, and letters mailed in San Juan one evening are delivered in Ponce the following night. General Frederick D. Grant is in command of the district of San Juan, and as a result of many inspection trips throughout his part of the island has the military body in excellent condition. There is no sickness to speak of in any of the camps.

"Social life in San Juan is now attractive, thanks to the leadership of Mrs. Grant. Although she does not speak Spanish her graces as a society woman make it possible for her to draw to her house the best of the native people, and on Monday night she had a gathering in her drawing room of all that is notable in Porto Rican society. Mr. Allison Armour of Chicago was in the harbor of San Juan last week with his yacht, the Utowana, and asked Mrs. Grant to form a group of guests for an afternoon entertainment on board. She invited the 400 of that city, and their appreciation of an afternoon's entertainment on board an American yacht was very sincere. There is always a representative body of naval officers on duty in San Juan and they, together with the army officers, with the ladies of their families, make up a nucleus of a social world that is very superior. The climate during these winter months is ideal. The northeast trade winds blow all the time, and the sun, except during the midday hours, is not oppressive. Every steamer that reaches the port brings its complement of American visitors, and the American colony bids fair within a short time to be considerable, both in numbers and character."

A Queen's Naughty Doll.

There are many who think that had they but been born in a higher sphere of life they would have known what complete happiness meant. That this would not have been the case the following story goes a good deal toward showing. It was against the strict etiquette of the Dutch court for the young Queen Wilhelmina to be allowed to play with any other little boys and girls, and so she grew up practically alone. Wilhelmina was only about six or seven years of age when she was one day overheard playing with her dolls. One wax baby miscondacted itself in some way, and the small mother, holding up a warning finger, said sternly: "If you are so naughty, I shall make you into a princess, and then you won't have any other children to play with, and you'll always have to throw kisses with your hands whenever you go out crying." This she evidently considered the most severe punishment that could be administered.

LAST WEEK OF THE SESSION.

Definite Announcement That the Legislature Will Adjourn Friday.

Springfield, Ill., April 10.—The Forty-First general assembly of the state of Illinois will adjourn sine die Friday evening. Speaker Sherman is in absolute control, and his oft-repeated prediction that the legislature would adjourn April 14 will be fulfilled next Friday night.

At the Saturday session Representative Stewart offered a resolution, which was adopted by the house, authorizing the governor to appoint a commission of five members of the general assembly to report upon the advisability of removing the Joliet penitentiary to some other site. The complaint against Joliet is that the sewerage facilities are poor and that the proximity of so many manufacturing institutions renders the air too smoke-laden for the health of the convicts.

No attempt will be made to push the bill for the adoption of the New York labor system in Illinois prisons. Instead a commission will be appointed to investigate and report upon the subject.

Corea Will Open Four Ports.

Tacoma, Wash., April 10.—Advices by steamer say the Korean government is preparing to open the ports of Masan, Kinsan, Songjin and Phyeongyang, all sea ports of some importance. Japan has been foremost in demanding that these ports be thrown open to foreign commerce. The Japanese minister, Kato, presided over a conference of the diplomatic corps in Seoul in March, at which all those present urged the opening of the ports named as soon as possible. The government was so informed, and announced its intention of taking measures to comply.

Volunteers Under Arrest.

Boston, Mass., April 10.—Eighteen members of the regiment of Massachusetts volunteers which arrived here Sunday from the West Indies came as prisoners, and were turned over to the commandant at Fort Warren to serve out terms of imprisonment for violations of military law or dissipation. Much dissatisfaction was expressed by the men during the voyage, at the quantity and quality of the provisions furnished. Last Friday evening the trouble among the soldiers almost approached mutiny.

Work for Buffalo's Fair.

Buffalo, N. Y., April 10.—A delegation from the committee of state and foreign relations of the Pan-American exposition left last night for Madison, Wis., to endeavor to interest the state legislature in the exposition of 1901. The delegation, which is headed by Alfred Haines, president of the Buffalo Merchants' Exchange, will arrive in Milwaukee this afternoon, and the members hope to meet prominent men of that city before proceeding to Madison.

Russians Rule Manchuria.

Tacoma, Wash., April 10.—Advices from Newchwang, Manchuria, say the Russians are very active there. They are buying land and houses in the interior and acting with entire disregard of treaty stipulations. At Newchwang there are 20,000 Russian troops. In Kirwin they have a regular concession and 200 Russian troops, for whose use the Chinese barracks have been surrendered. In Liaoyang about 200 soldiers are stationed.

Duke de Arcos May Be Chosen.

Madrid, April 10.—While it is certain that the forthcoming parliamentary elections will result in a government triumph—it is the business of the provincial governors to see to that—no move will be made toward a resumption of diplomatic relations with Washington until after the government is sure of its majority in the cortes. It looks more and more, however, as if the choice would fall upon the Duke de Arcos.

Five Victims Laid to Rest.

New York, April 10.—The funeral services over the remains of the members of the family of Wallace C. Andrews and Gamaliel C. St. John, who perished in Friday morning's terrible fire, were held at the Fifth avenue home of the Andrews family Sunday afternoon. The services were simple, and none but the very intimate friends and relatives of the family was present.

WINE OF CARDUI

A SURE MEDICINE.

HANDSON, VA., Dec. 31.

I have been suffering from female weakness for four years, and have taken many medicines, but Wine of Cardui and Black-Draught have done more for me than anything else.

MRS. CAROLINE EVANS.

WINE OF CARDUI

It is a mistake to take any and every kind of medicine when you are sick. There is danger in it. Most of the so-called cures for "female weakness" do nothing more than deaden the pain temporarily, and when the effect wears away the patient is weaker and sicker than before. It is never wise to take chances. You have only one life, and that is dear and precious. If you have any pain, ache, disorder or weakness in the female organs, nothing will help you like Wine of Cardui. It helps do away with morning sickness during the early stages of pregnancy, and modifies the pains of childbirth; recovery is rapid and future health is assured. The Wine is purely vegetable, being made of herbs whose medicinal properties act directly upon the organs of womanhood. It is a long-tried remedy, and has many years of success behind it. It is sure. Why take a chance medicine when you can get a sure medicine?

ALMOST GARDEN MAKING TIME!

A welcome thought to all lovers of out door work of this sort. The last two years we have pleased hundreds of customers with the best of seeds—

Landreth's Seeds!

This year we expect to please the same people and many more. We will sell Landreth's seeds again the coming season. Our seed experience runs over a good many years, yet in all that time we never have sold a brand of seeds that were superior from every point as Landreth's; they are true to name in every particular. Landreth's Seeds

ARE NEVER OLD.

Each year the old stock on hand is destroyed, so that the stock of this season was grown on the Landreth farms last year. Landreth's include every variety known, and germinating qualities cannot be better. We have received our spring invoices of them and have them opened up ready for sale. The Landreth & Son's seed house was established in 1784 and are now in their 115th year of continuous successful business. Such a record means much and tells a tale of great reliability. You make no mistake in buying Landreth's seeds—there are no better anywhere.

Garden, Flower, Grass, and Field Seeds,

BAIT FOR MAN-EATER.

HORRIBLE PREDICAMENT OF AN OFFICER IN BURMA.

Just as the "Pierce Tiger" was crunching his way to the body of the helpless man came the longed-for relief.

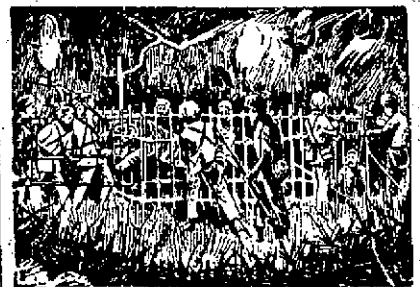

Burma was a most disturbed country from 1852 to 1856. This is a story told by Mr. Henry Stone, a young British officer, who was there during that period, engaged in railroad construction near Rangoon. One day some natives asked him to shoot some elephants that were trampling and denuding their fields, and he consented. But on the evening of the day of the hunt, the elephants having been dispatched, Mr. Stone and his party of native assistants found that they could not find their way out of the forest. Mr. Stone tells of what happened as follows:

Moung Goung Gee, an independent warrior, half soldier, and wholly a dacoit—robber and assassin—was in arms at this time, and appeared here what their fate would be they assisted the Kala-logue. He ordered them, off for instant torture and execution, but I cannot describe the horrors that followed. Their memory is a horrid nightmare to this day.

About 5 p. m. I was walked off a good six or eight miles through dense jungles, reviled and tortured more or less the whole way, and at length I found myself stripped and thrust into a trap prepared for a tiger—a bamboo arrangement of simple construction. My fallers were needlessly brutal, and abused me in every way, hoping I'd like the treatment I should meet from the man-eating tiger which hovered about near where the trap had been specially laid.

The trap was one of those usually erected for tigers in Burma. It was a long, rectangular, box-like structure, made of bamboos. The portico set aside for the bait was only just large enough for me. I crouched there dumbly, half crazed with horror, and quite unable to realize my fearful position.

It was early in January and the weather very chilly—for Burma. I offered large bribes to my custodians to let me escape, but they only scoffed at me.

Shortly afterward the crowning horror came. I heard soft footfalls first, and then something sniffing round the trap. There could be no doubt that it was the man-eater. My heart nearly burst. I was kept in agony for full ten minutes, and then the beast evidently found the door, for he entered and I heard the door fall. There was a partition of bamboos between him and me, but I anticipated that he would soon demolish that and tear me to pieces as I lay huddled up helplessly.

In the darkness I could see the great, luminous, wistful eyes of the man-eater. The fearful brute, finding that he could not get in to me, began to insert his paws gently, but I crept up to the outer bars, and then he could barely reach me. He did succeed, however, in giving me a claw or two on my back and buttock. As he smelt the blood he began to gnaw at the bars, and would doubtless have made short work of them, but there was a sudden glare of torches, a confused murmur and then I felt the worst had passed. A guide, with ten of the Sikhs out of the twenty which formed my bodyguard, came up and bayoneted the tiger, who was caught literally like a rat in a trap. Fire they dared not, as they were only a couple of miles from Goung Gee's camp. They released me, more dead than alive, from my living tomb, and then improvised a hammock out of a native blanket and carried me to my camp.

I was reading an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in the Worcester. Enterprize recently, which leads me to write this. I can truthfully say I never used any remedy equal to it for colic and diarrhoea. I have never had to use more than one or two doses to cure the worst case with myself or children. —W. A. About Maple Sugar.

We cannot say too much about this new Ohio maple sugar we have lately received. It is even better than we expected, and is far ahead in favor of anything we ever put into stock. The purity cannot be questioned. The man who makes it we know personally; he is a relative of one of Janesville's business men. A First ward lady came in the other day and bought some of it. She knows good sugar, too; and ever since then she has been telling her friends how good it is. We are selling maple sugar from her recommendation. Costs only 12¢ per pound. No higher than cheap impure stuff. Sanborn.

GIVE THE CHILDREN A DRINK called Grain-O. It is a delicious, appetizing, nourishing food drink to take the place of coffee. Sold by all grocers and liked by all who have used it because when properly prepared it tastes like the finest coffee but is free from all its injurious properties. Grain-O aids digestion and strengthens the nervous system. It is not a stimulant but a health builder, and children as well as adults, can drink it with great benefit. Costs about 14¢ as much as coffee. 15 and 25¢
